

Course Description – Curriculum 2013

Subject: IS411 Internet Application Development

Credits: 3

Prerequisite: IS311 and IS315

Description: This course cover different types of online application that uses for designing different types of Internet applications. Issues such as different programming languages, protocols, Internet standards on both client and server sides will be covered. The security issues regarding the design and implementation during the development period of various Internet applications will also be covered.